Zoro Is Named a Top Midsize Workplace by the Chicago Tribune
A distinguished honor based on anonymous employee feedback

CHICAGO, November 24, 2021 /PRNewswire/-- Zoro.com, an eCommerce company that sells millions of supplies, equipment, and tools to businesses nationwide, has been awarded the nineteenth spot on the Chicago Tribune's list of the Top Midsize Workplaces in Chicago in 2021. It is the fourth year that Zoro made the list.

"We're honored to be featured on this list for the past few years," said Kevin Weadick, President at Zoro US. "I really feel that Zoro is a special place to work, and that has everything to do with our people. I have not found a more passionate, smart, and genuine team who work incredibly well together to bring our Zoro vision and strategy to life."

Zoro earned this achievement through confidential employee feedback provided on a survey conducted by Energage on behalf of the Chicago Tribune. Energage is a workplace survey company based in Exton, PA. Employees responded to a set of statements regarding their workplace on a seven-point scale. Topics included employees' feelings on their leadership's effectiveness and their level of engagement at work.

In 2021, Zoro was also recognized by Fortune magazine as a Best Small and Medium Workplace, Best Small and Medium Workplace for Millennials, and Best Small and Medium Workplace in Retail. Zoro was also named as a Best Small and Medium Workplace in Chicago by Great Place to Work®. It's a proud feat as Zoro celebrates its tenth year in business.
